Coffee Snobs Please Note: All our milk is provided by Straus Organic. Straus has developed the first organic milk made specifically for coffee. The special formula was created by notable baristas. It highlights coffee flavor, maintains tight, uniform bubbles and adds a smooth, creamy texture. In addition, all our house water is purified by a Cirqua customized system. Put that in your cup and drink it.

LAMILL COFFEE BOUTIQUE

Pumpkin flavored coffee in October, green minty drinks on St. Patrick's Day—is this what passes for creativity these days? Granted, we have flavored drinks, too. But they're really interesting drinks, like Coffee and a Jelly Donut and Liquid Tiramisu. When we set out to design our beverage menu, two words served as our guideposts: Mad and Scientist. You want a Pink Lady? Yeah, we got 'em. How about a Green Tea Mojito? Got that too.

Innovate or Die—it's one of the abiding tenets of the coffee business. That, and Put a Hot Beverage Warning Label on Your Cups. We designed our specialty drinks to be creative, delicious, and fun. Just like our customers.

LAMILL COFFEES

About a hundred miles outside of Reno, there's a little truck stop just off I80 that claims to have The Best Coffee in the World. That's what the plaque says. Well, no disrespect to Sierra Sam's Truck Stop Casino, but that's a pretty tall claim. We at Lamill are very serious about our coffee—we liken it to fine wine. After all, coffee has notable vintages, is aged, has narrow growing parameters, and most importantly, has the depth and character of a fine wine. Why, just the other day we chanced upon an impertinent little Guatemalan that teased us with hints of chocolate, licorice, and ripe cherries. Told you—we're serious about coffee. When you walk out of here, you should have no doubt about who serves "The Best Coffee in the World."

Clover 3.5
Chemex 12

El Salvador El Milagro

Pound 13

Located high in the Ilamatepec Mountain Range, the El Milagro farm has been producing excellent coffee for over forty years. Naturally fermented and sun dried on patios, this particular cup is characterized by bright citrus notes—it's tangy and sweet, with lots of lemon, a medium body, and surprising depth.

Kenya Gichi Auction Lot

Pound 16

Another classic Kenyan, Gichi is clean and sweet, thick with fruit and berry flavors, with complimentary savory notes of tomato broth. This cup has a bright acidity, complimented by a mellower medium body. A long finish with hints of sweet honey.

Organic Black OnyxPound 14

This coffee blend is from several countries to produce a bittersweet flavor like the best dark chocolates. It has the right balance between body, intensity of the roast flavor and caramelized sugar to make for an intensely flavored coffee all without the bitter and burnt flavors common with dark roasts.

Organic Brazil Serra Do BonéPound 15

Serra do Boné is grown in the Matas de Minas area in Brazil. The farm is ¼ coffee and the rest rainforest, left intact by the farmer. Grown organically and sustainably, this coffee is grown, harvested and processed in with the best practices. A fourth place finisher in the 2006 Cup of Excellence, Lamill has the production lot from this quality producer. The cup is like drinking dark chocolate, with texture of cashew butter, orange, sweet dried fruit and a floral finish. It's great as a single origin espresso as well.

Organic Decaffeinated PeruPound 15

The majority of Peruvian coffee is farmed without the use of man-made chemicals, fertilizers, or pesticides, resulting in what is essentially an organic coffee. This Peruvian undergoes a special decaffeinating process that completely preserves its flavor. And what a flavor—deep body, with warm, earthy notes of chocolate and tobacco. You don't give up anything.

Organic Decaffeinated SumatraPound 15

Lamill's decaffeinated coffees employ an exclusive Water Process. We start with the same high quality beans as our regular coffees, removing the caffeine but not the flavor. You'll taste a rich, deep-bodied Sumatran, with notes of cocoa and orange peel over a background of smoky tobacco.

Organic Ethiopia Gololcha NaturalPound 15

The Golocha area is home to Ethiopia's top marathoners. It can also lay claim to some world-class coffees. This shade-grown bean is a natural, or dry process coffee that is noted for its flavors of apricot brandy and crème fraiche and particularly for its distinct blueberry flavor—unusual in coffee.

Organic Lamill HousePound 14

Organic Lamill House is a blend of coffees from Africa, Central & South America. It's created to give a soft, pleasing and sweet cup without the high bright notes nor the deep roasty notes of a dark roast. It is well balanced in flavor, acid, body and acidity with no bitterness.

ESPRESSOLamill Organic EspressoPound 14

An exotic blend of Organic Natural Brazil, Organic Natural Ethiopia, and Organic Sumatra, this trilogy of flavors combines traditionally thick and heavy-bodied espressos with a twist of citrus notes and bright acidity. A heavenly mixture of cacao liquor, molasses, hints of savory broth, and tamarind.

Lamill Organic Decaf EspressoPound 15

We've been working to create a decaf espresso that's up to our standards and we finally got it right. As complex and as flavorful as our regular espresso, this cup has its own unique characteristics. Malty sweet with a creamy body and layers of flavors—exotic nuts, chocolate chip with hints of raisins and dried fruit.

LAMILL TEAS

For years, Tea has lived in the shadow of its more famous and arguably sexier younger sibling, Coffee. Tea has had to content itself with a slightly older crowd as Coffee snapped up the young hipsters, not to mention all the acclaim and limelight. Tea has been patiently biding its time, waiting for the day when once again, it would reclaim its glory. That day is not long off. People of all ages are discovering Tea's widely acknowledged health benefits. Of course, this isn't news to us—we've spent the last few years sourcing the best teas in the world. It was only a matter of time before people re-discovered the extraordinary tea leaf. All hail Tea!
